UNIVERSITÀ DEGLI STUDI
DI NAPOLI FEDERICO II

WHAT IS TIDS?

The TIDS Observatory is a scientific hub where trainees can experience research methods and techniques.

The main TIDS topic is Ecological and Digital (Twin) Transition (EC, 2020) and the analysis of political and socio-economic dynamics arising post Covid-19.

It is leaded by the research group of the Prof. Paola De Vivo

WHAT does it OFFER?

The TISS Observatory offers an internship lasting 150 hours (6 CFU) to all (and only) students enrolled in a Master's degree course of the Department of Political Science at the University of Naples Federico II.

Master's degree:

- International Relations (In Eng)
- Relazioni internazionali e Analisi di Scenario
- Scienza della Pubblica Amministrazione e del lavoro
- Scienze Statistiche per le Decisioni
- Gestione delle Politiche e dei Servizi Sociali

What will you do?

The trainees will carry out a real research project by analyzing the different aspects of the the Twin transition, such as:

- Recovery Policy (e.g. PNRR; NextGenEU Plan)
- The concept of Industry 4.0, Fourth Industrial Revolution, and digitisation of enterprises
- DESI and ICT data from official platforms (e.g. Istat, Eurostat)
- SWOT (Strength, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats) to define socio-economic effects

Expected results:

The trainee will prepare and present a Scientific Report related to the results and steps of the research activities carried out during the internship
